

Two small, focused tests. One winner to scale.

At ₹5,000 a month, the goal isn't reach — it's finding out, cheaply, whether Instagram or Google gets you a cheaper, better qualified lead. Month two's budget follows whichever wins.

01 — The honest read

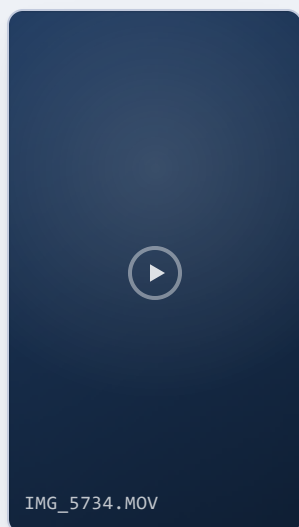

₹5,000 is a test budget, not a growth budget

Split two ways, that's about ₹83 a day per channel. That's enough to learn something in 30 days — which channel gets you a cheaper lead, what messaging lands — but not enough to expect real volume yet. Treat month one as reconnaissance.

IF YOU'D RATHER LEARN FASTER

Put the full ₹5,000 behind one channel for month one instead of splitting it. A single channel exits the ad platform's learning phase faster and gives you a cleaner read on real cost-per-lead. The two-way split below is what you asked for — it's a fine choice too, just a slower one to get statistically confident data from.

What we're running

Presenter walkthrough — Infinity Uniquers

A 58-second vertical piece to camera: a presenter introduces Meet to Manage, calls out specific capabilities (AI, Smart Batch Scheduling, and others) with on-screen graphics, and closes on a branded end card with your logo, tagline, and contact details.

0:58 · length 1080×1920 · 9:16 vertical Reels-native · framing

Before it runs as a paid ad: cut it down to 15–20 seconds. 58 seconds works for someone who already clicked to watch you on your profile — a cold viewer scrolling their feed decides in the first 2–3 seconds whether to keep watching. Pick your single sharpest hook (Smart Batch Scheduling tests well as a concrete, specific opener) and lead with it. I can produce this cutdown from the raw footage — just say the word.

Instagram and Google, run differently on purpose

Same video, same total budget, opposite logic. Instagram pays for attention from people who aren't looking for you yet. Google pays for intent from people already typing the problem into a search bar — which is why the two campaigns don't look alike.

Reels lead ad

₹2,500/mo

≈ ₹83 / day

OBJECTIVE

Leads — native on-platform form (not an external landing page — one less drop-off step at this budget)

FORMAT

Single Reels placement, 15–20s vertical cutdown

LEAD FORM ASKS

Name · Phone · Institute name · City

AUDIENCE

India-wide (narrow to your serviceable region if leads outside it) · coaching/tuition/academy owners, 26–55 · interests: EdTech, small business ownership, tutoring

CALL TO ACTION

"Learn More" → lead form

Vertical video is Instagram's cheapest inventory per impression, and the asset is already native to it.

LANDING PAGE

meettomanage.cloud/get-started — not the homepage

WHERE IT SHOWS

Google.com search results and Google Maps, as text ads — not the Display Network (banner ads across other sites) and not YouTube video ads. Turn off "Search Partners" in campaign settings so spend stays on Google's own results page, the highest-intent surface.

No video/Display here: at ₹83/day, paying for search intent beats paying for reach where almost nobody is shopping for this today.

Where the ₹5,000 goes

CHANNEL	OBJECTIVE	MONTHLY	DAILY
Instagram (Meta)	Leads — native form	₹2,500	₹83
Google Ads	Clicks → demo signup	₹2,500	₹83
Total		₹5,000	₹166

Three things to set up first

Install conversion tracking

Meta Pixel + Google's conversion tag on the /get-started page. Without this, day 30 tells you nothing — you won't know which channel actually produced a lead.

Confirm your service area

This plan assumes India-wide targeting. If your sales follow-up only really works in certain states or cities, narrow it now — it's free to do and saves wasted spend.

Cut the 15–20s ad version

From the same IMG_5734.MOV footage, leading with one specific hook instead of the full feature tour.

What to actually look at

COST PER LEAD

The only number that matters more than clicks or impressions. A cheap click that never converts is just a cost.

LEAD QUALITY

Are the people who filled the form actually institute owners, or curious clicks? 10 real leads beats 40 low-intent ones.

MONTH 2 DECISION

Whichever channel has the lower cost-per-real-lead gets more of next month's budget. Don't keep the 50/50 split by default — let the data move it.

No historical data exists yet for this exact niche, so treat any lead-volume number as a guess, not a forecast — day 30's actual numbers replace this guess immediately.

07 — Launch checklist

Get both live in the same week

Starting together gives you a clean, comparable 30-day window instead of two campaigns with different amounts of runway.

- 1 Narrow targeting geography, if needed
- 2 Finish the 15–20s video cutdown
- 3 Install Meta Pixel + Google conversion tag
- 4 Launch Instagram Reels lead ad and Google Search campaign together
- 5 Day 30 — compare cost-per-lead, reallocate for month two
